Victory in North Carolina.

Instead of a defeat at Kingston, North Carolina, as the rebels reported, the federal forces under Gen. Foster have achieved a victory. The rebels were driven from the place in disorder, and our army was advancing on Goldsboro', which is an important railroad point, twenty miles distant from Kingston.

The Defeat at Fredericksburg.

We hope the statement is true that our loss at the battle of Fredericksburg is less than at first reported. Ten thousand is now said to be the number. The committee of the senate, on the conduct of the war, has departed to the headquarters of Gen. Burnside, to ascertain who ordered the assault to be made.

All the descriptions of the battle show that our men fought heroically, and since the rebels were not cut down but repulsed, even the rebels admit their daring courage.

It is reported from Richmond that the rebel loss was 8,000.

To all our charges of wastefulness and favoritism by the county and city boards, the Gazette, which is the recipient of a considerable share of the money squandered, replies with nothing but abuse to the tax-payers. The newspaper rolls short that for every dollar paid into the treasury by the Gazette men, about ten dollars are paid by the proprietors of the Monitor. It is not very creditable to them, after pocketing some thousands of dollars of the money paid by us and others, that they should turn around and abuse us for calling attention to the fact that the money paid "to support the government," were being squandered for partisan purposes.—Monitor.

Last week we called on the editor of the Monitor for specifications and proofs of its charges of favoritism, corruption, peculation and fraud against men in all respects regarded as honest and of fair reputation, or stand convicted as their deliberate and malignant enemies. This is the only answer we get. His resort is that of a sneaking slanderer. Conscience that he has no proof of his charges, and without the manliness to retract them, he adds a new falsehood to his original stock, by asserting that in our replies to his untrue statements we resorted to abuse of the tax-payers. There is, however, in this new allegation, a refreshing exhibition of modesty! The proprietor of the Monitor pays ten times as much tax as the three publishers of the rich and pampered Gazette! Really, has it ever occurred to so wealthy and respectable a man, and so heavy a tax-payer as Andrew Palmer that he ought to be above the dirty business of lying about his neighbors for the purpose of detaching a part of their business to himself? What would satisfy his cupidity? Does he want to monopolize all the business within his view?

By the way our correspondent "Respublican," has effectually shut up our grumbling contemporary on the ship-plaster question. The exposure of selling specie at a large premium, and then issuing "Produce Balance" checks in payment of his own debts and as currency to take the place of the specie he sold, was a little too much for even the man who is so ready to slander his neighbors, and he falls back upon the more congenial employment of opposing all the measures adopted by the government to crush the slaveholders' rebellion and punish northern traitors, and assailing the cow and mud-measuring ordinances as republican party measures, when every democratic member of the council who was present when those ordinances passed voted for them! Verily, the big gunned Monitor has proved to be the veriest kind of a child's toy boat.

ANALOGATION.—The pro-slaveryites everywhere accuse the abolitionists of being in favor of amalgamation. The charge, of course, is false, but from the statement of Capt. Britton it appears that the slaveholders are the greatest practical amalgamationists, and that the further south the army moves the more negroes are bleached. "The pro-slaveryites ought to cease their railing against slavery men on this account, and extend to their southern brethren, who, if not reformed soon, will not be able to distinguish each other from white Africans."

Gen. Rosecrans, himself Catholic, has arrested Father Dimmick, a German Catholic priest of Nashville, for treasonable conduct, and sent him to camp Chase.

Rhode Island recently advertised for bids for a loan of $600,000. Over $1,000,000 were offered, and the loan was obtained at 84 premium.

The pulpit Gen. Bayard, who fell at the battle of Fredericksburg, was only 28 years of age. He was to have been married in about a month.

From the Eighth Regiment.

Oxford, Miss., Dec. 12, 1862.

Editors Gazette: This great army is still pushing ahead. Thousands of troops are passing here daily, and the question asked by the prisoners and citizens is, "Have you left any one at home, north?" We tell them they have not seen the half yet, and I think they begin to believe us. They ask us if we have any more good clothes up north. It beats them to find out how we are so well clothed and fed. Our men give them hard crackers to eat, and treat them as well as prisoners ought to be treated. I saw an incident yesterday worth mentioning: As we were marching from Abbeville to this place, we met some 800 rebel prisoners, taken by our advance. In our regiment is a girl who was formerly a slave, and who is now cooking for one of the companies. She saw her master among the prisoners, and gave him some crackers, which he took, and appeared to be thankful for them. What changes have taken place since this war began! Thousands have been made poor, and thousands of hearts have been made glad to think that they are forever free.

I have mentioned several times in my letters the white slaves, but I saw a girl to-day that beats them all; she was whiter than the whitest. The farther we get south the whiter the negroes appear to be bleached. I think as Prentiss does, that the chivalry like the negroes better than the Yankees. As we marched through the streets of Oxford, yesterday, a young lady, who was standing on the sidewalk, asked us what kind of a bird that we carried? We told her an eagle. She replied, "You can't fool me; that's a Yankee buzzard you carry." We find plenty of citizens here—more than at any place we have passed through yet. Our advance was too close on them here. One little girl said to us, "Why, your soldiers are not like ours; you take down fences for fires, and when you drive ours out of here, you went through fences and gates and never shot them after you; but our soldiers don't burn fences, and they shoot gates after them." I thought that was rather queer.

The 33d Wisconsin passed through here this morning, and one or two other regiments. I saw the 12th Col. Bryant, pass. The 6th and 12th batteries left here also this morning. Wisconsin is largely represented in this movement. One company of the 8th is between the Tallahatchie and Waterford, repairing railroad bridges; the rest of us are on provost guard here. But I don't think we will remain here long—probably until some other division comes up. Our place is not in the rear. If our old general were here, we would now be far from this, on the extreme front, where we have always been heretofore.

We have beautiful weather here yet; the days are as warm as June in Wisconsin. We long to see the cars come with railroads, so that we can still keep going ahead. Between Holly Springs and the Tallahatchie, a distance of fifteen miles, we found twenty-five bridges burned, some of them 200 feet long and 50 feet high. I had a detail of mechanics from the 17th Illinois working on bridges, and on the part of the road I had, there were five bridges burned in the short distance of one mile. There is a company from each regiment of our brigade now on the road, besides one regiment of engineers and the 16th Wisconsin, and we expect to soon see the cars running to this place, and far beyond. The road is in good condition along here, as they had no time to burn bridges.

What is going on in front I cannot say; but by the way the troops are rushed forward, something is about to take place. Whether the rebels stop or not, weather permitting and roads in good condition, we will soon have Columbus, Jackson and Vicksburg, and the war will then be over in this state.

It has the appearance of rain to-day, and I fear our movements will be stopped if much rain falls. We pray for no rain during the winter, and I hope our prayers may be granted, for we will give them no rest and no time to dig trenches. They dug their last trenches on the Tallahatchie, and strong they were—too strong, I think, for the army in front; but the fire in the rear was "what the matter." Our general they were here. That is a good way to fight battles, without much bloodshed. It does not seem so nice to some. Big battles look nice on paper and in print, but when we can whip them without it, it is much pleasanter to those engaged. We took a great many prisoners here, and they are coming in all the time—sixty to-day. I have 52 men here, all fit for duty except one, and all in fine spirits. Still hoping for success, I am, respectfully, yours,
W. B. DIXON,
Eighth Wisconsin Volunteers.

From Gen. Rosecrans' Army.

Headquarters of Gen. A. D. McIndoe,
in the field on the North Carolina line, near Nashville, Dec. 11, 1862.

Editors Gazette: It is the "Holy Sabbath," and notwithstanding the Bible says "in it thou shalt do no work," the air resounds with the loud rattle of the clumsy army wagons; our cars are clogged by the loud oaths and imprecations of the unscrupulous teamster; the sharp report of the relieved picket's rifle rings out clear and distinct; the clatter of the swift-riding orderlies' horses continues the same as though it were any other day; one almost believes in the truth of the saying, "There is no Sabbath in the army."

The day is warm and balmy—it seems like spring. The birds are singing merrily, and the warm south wind makes the camp fire not needed by the tented soldiers. The troops are all busy getting ready for the grand move which must ere long come off. Long trains are continually arriving, loaded with ammunition, rations, clothing, forage, arms, hospital supplies, shelter tents, pontoon bridge materials, and all the various and nameless articles used in war. These trains move not only by day, but night after night, "all the silent hours long" this stream of supplies pours in upon this army. The men and officers are all ready and spoiling for another encounter with the enemy, and I think you need have no fears of this army going into winter quarters short of some quiet day in the far off sunny south. The river has been raising some lately; the obstructions which the rebels put into it at Clarksville are being removed; the gunboats are getting up stream, and not many weeks can elapse ere the deep-toned roar of battle will once more cause the hills and valleys of old Tennessee to resound as never before.

Gen. Rosecrans took the field day before yesterday, and now all the other generals are in the field. It would do you any amount of real Simon-pure good to see and know how the rebels hate and despise Gen. Rosecrans. I think that were pandemonium let loose, they would love the chief imp more than they do the general. He has discontinued the rose-water policy of the rebels' favorite, Gen. Buell, and by the way of a reward gets the curses and imprecations of all rebeldom, and the good wishes and prayers of all good loyal people. I think it will not be called boasting when I say that we have in this department a set of real fighting generals, and men who will follow where they lead. They have all been tried—at Shiloh, Corinth, Chaplin Hills, and on other well-contested fields.

The signal corps is now earning its pay and subsistence. The small, mysterious flag now performs the duty of the mounted orderlies from one general's headquarters to another by day, and the torch keeps us busy at night. Since we came here from the east new life has been infused into the veins of the signal corps that was here, and the corps is now rising in the favor of the commanding general. When we first came here the whole corps was almost dead, some of the officers and men had been sent back to their regiments, and the others were tolerated only because the generals had no power to dismiss them, but a few days since the most of those who had been sent away were recalled, the corps has been reorganized and at a trial of it the other day, the inspector general said it was a fine thing. If constant work will place us where we will be of any service to the army. Lieut. Chum will have us here, he is busy all the time opening lines of communication and at various other duties.

Since I wrote my last, there has not been a skirmish of any note except the Hartsville shameful affair, beyond the mere daily attacks of the rebels on our forage trains. I was in the city the other day when the men taken at Hartsville came in, paroled. The rebels in the city were jubilant indeed, they had employed Madame Rumer and she said: Gen. Burnside had been defeated and was a prisoner, John Morgan had again completed his railroad contract, they would have Nashville again by Christmas, they had us just where they wanted us and "the Yankees" would suffer now. I think their day of rejoicing will end ere another year opens its portals to us. Then let them boast while they may, for
With God and the right we must prevail,
With us there is no such word as fail.

Well, I have troubled you long enough now and I will close, hoping to date my next in some far off place in Seersia.

Interesting from Rebeldom.

Special dispatch to Cincinnati Gazette.

The Vicksburg Whig, of the 11th inst., says: "We cannot afford to rest under the recent advantage Grant gained over us. We must have a swift and effectual compensation with an enormous interest. We must recover ground as fast as we lose it, or our system of defense will be thrown into confusion. The other day it might have been material whether we watched the development of each new movement of the enemy, or not. It might have made little difference whether we brought on or declined a battle; but now we must fight. We had all the genius and ability of the generals in the west to prepare a plan that will gain for us the lost ground with the smallest injury to our army. This ground must be regained though it be at the cost of hundreds and thousands of lives."

The Charleston Mercury of the 13th inst. contains the names of five men—L. Newman, Charles Ward, W. McGregor, William Smith, and F. Smith—who, it says, deserted from the Yankee gunboats off the Florida coast, and arrived in Charleston on the 12th inst.

Jeff Davis, on his way from Chattanooga to Murfreesboro, came near being thrown into the Tennessee river, near Shellsburg, by the car containing his rebel majesty being suddenly detached from the rest of the train.

The rebel Gen. Tom Cobb was killed on Saturday at Fredericksburg.

A correspondent of the Atlanta Intelligencer, writing from Richmond under date of the 10th inst., says that Gen. Gustavus W. Smith has resigned his position in the Confederate Army.

The rebel court at Knoxville has indicted Chancellor Seth J. Lackey for treason. Kennedy Rodgers, late aid-de-camp to the Union Gen. Morgan, has been indicted for circulating counterfeit rebel notes.

The same court has decreed the sequestration of the property of Andrew Johnson, Horace Maynard, and John Coffee Childs.

Gen. Buckner left Murfreesboro to-day to assume command of the defenses of Mobile.

On the 6th inst., at Marietta, while attempting to silence a brawl.

The following telegrams appear in the Murfreesboro Rebel Journal to-day:

An official dispatch to Gen. Cooper says: "At 9 o'clock on Saturday morning the enemy attacked our right wing at Marietta, the fog lifted, the battle raged along the line from right to left until 6 P. M., the enemy being repulsed at all points, thanks be to God. As usual, we have to mourn the loss of many brave men. I expect the battle will be renewed to-morrow morning."

Gen. Hamilton reports that he entered Dumfries and captured twenty wagons with stores, and fifty prisoners, all of which he brought to the Rappahannock. General Sigel is expected at Dumfries to-morrow.

SECOND DISPATCH.

"Richmond, Dec. 14.
"Passengers report that the enemy was driven back to the river, and our troops occupied the battle field all morning. Our loss is variously stated—probably not more than 500 killed and 2,500 wounded. The body of Gen. Tom Cobb was brought down this evening. The enemy's loss is reported as immense. A thousand dead lay in one field. The federal Gen. Hooker is reported killed. Passengers report that we have fifteen hundred prisoners."

New York, Dec. 18.
The steamer Cahawba, from New Orleans the 10th, arrived here. Among her passengers are Hon. B. Flanders and Hon. M. Hahn, members of congress from Louisiana.

Gen. Butler, finding the fund-raised for the poor exhausted, has levied an assessment amounting to $28,000 on the cotton brokers who advised planters not to send produce in order to induce foreign intervention.

Gen. French, provost marshal general, has issued an order that all persons arriving at New Orleans be required to take the oath of allegiance before landing. The rebels on the opposite side of the lake were conspiring, and out of eighteen who crossed on passes, sixteen were seized and put into the rebel army.

Last Night's Report.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.
The joint committee of congress, on the conduct of the war, in pursuance of Senator Wilkinson's resolution, adopted to-day, left Washington to-night for the Rappahannock, to inquire into the facts connected with late events near Fredericksburg.

Special to Chicago Journal.—Memphis papers have received The Bulletin says: "Two rebel regiments were seen upon the Yazoo at the time of the explosion of the torpedo." This is positively denied by officers on board the Cairo.

The rebels are said to be fortifying at Vicksburg; that they have seventy guns mounted on the river—two hundred in all mounted; that the fortifications extend eight miles back from the river. Most of this is extremely improbable. They have no such number of guns, nor such fortifications. It is even doubted, by good judges, whether the rebels will fight at all at Vicksburg.

It is said 6,000 rebel troops have just been sent from Vicksburg to Jackson, and that the force at the latter place is about ten thousand.

The rebels still continue to burn cotton along the river below Helena. Last week at Sardinia, Panola county, Miss., three hundred bales, worth seventy-five thousand dollars, were destroyed. All the wood yards on the river have also been burned.

While General Hovey's late expedition was in Mississippi, some stragglers who followed him went to Miss. Hill's plantation, on the Goldwater, twenty miles from Priests' Point, and robbed her of thirty thousand dollars in gold, a lot of Confederate money, and other property. On Saturday, she was at Helena, trying to recover her property, Gen. Steele giving her all the assistance in his power.

Mrs. Governor Harney, of Wisconsin, came up from Memphis this morning. The Daily List, just from Vicksburg, where she has been with a load of provisions, reports that everything was quiet along the river as she came up.

New York, Dec. 19.
HARRISBURG ARMY, THE PORTLAND, Saturday Evening, Dec. 19.
Yesterday, the rebels sent, under a flag of truce, a request that we would bury our dead. A burying party accordingly went over and continued their labors during the truce.

Col. Walton, chief of Longstreet's artillery, informed some of our officers that the rebel force engaged on Sumner's front on Saturday was only two brigades, but that they had a large reserve near by. He said that our men exhibited the greatest bravery, but he considered the rebel position impregnable, and that a force of 500,000 would find it impossible to carry the heights in the face of their batteries.

The rebel loss was small, compared with ours, from the fact that they were protected by stone walls and rifle pits.

Our losses, as heretofore reported, have been considerably decreased by the arrival of stragglers.

The enemy took 800 prisoners from us, a considerable portion of whom were absent from their camps when we evacuated the south side of the river. The prisoners taken on both sides have been paroled.

It is stated that Lee and Longstreet came down to-day and held conversation with some of our officers.

The flag of truce was withdrawn to-night, after all our dead were buried.

FALMOUTH, Dec. 16—8 p. m.
I have just crossed with the last of the army, and our pontoon boats have all been taken up. All our wounded and sick men were brought away safely. Our wounded were all removed, and the evacuation was conducted, under the guns of the enemy, in a masterly manner. The river is rising rapidly, and it still rains. The rapid running of the river would have no doubt washed our boats away had they remained. The enemy fired a few shots yesterday, but did not venture outside of their works, evidently being highly gratified at being let alone.

Our guns now command the town, and the rebels will hardly dare show their faces. A few rebel camps have been discovered, and the rebels are peering around the corners as we were leaving.

for compensation to that state, upon the passage of a law emancipating all the slaves therein, to the amount of $25,000,000. It is further provided that if the law of emancipation should amount all slaves on or before July 4th, 1863, the president shall have the whole amount of bonds prepared and delivered on the passage of the act. If it should provide for the termination of slavery at a later date the bonds shall be delivered in four equal installments, dating from the passage of the act to the time when slavery shall cease. The faith of the United States of America is pledged to the fulfillment of the agreement, and requires Missouri to refund the money received, if she should ever reintroduce slavery.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.
The star of to-day says that Seward has resigned.

New York, Dec. 20.
The details of the victory at Kingston, N. C., shows that the march was a continued series of fighting, in which all distinguished themselves. Several bayonet charges were made. The rebels were repulsed, having 15,000 men, and their loss in killed and wounded is heavy. We took 600 prisoners. Col. Gray, 90th New York, was killed. Our total loss will not exceed 150. The principal fight was a few miles from Kingston, where the rebels were entrenched; but after three hours' fighting they retreated towards Kingston, endeavoring to destroy a bridge leading to that place, but the 9th New Jersey charged over it and saved it. One division rapidly crossed when the rebels retreated—one rebel brigade towards Goldsboro, and the other towards Weldon, our shells helping them along. Capt. W. F. and Lieut. P. of the 10th Conn. were killed. Their regiment fought all out of ammunition, and then went in with bayonets. The 23d Mass. Maj. Chambers in command, captured 70 officers and men, including a lieutenant of the 2d South Carolina regiment. The march was taken up, on the 16th, for Goldsboro.

From the New York Times' dispatch, by advice from Yorktown, dated 16th, we learn that Gen. Egle and staff have just turned from a reconnaissance of Gloucester county. He took out four regiments of infantry and 100 cavalry and brought all back. Among the prisoners is one John L. Ewell, captain of a new guerrilla party just organized in Gloucester county. We brought in his horses, cattle and sheep. Our captures of animals will foot up near a thousand head. A number of prisoners were also taken, but were released on parole.

St. Louis, Dec. 19.
Gen. Curtis has received a dispatch from Gen. Herron stating that Hindman crossed the Arkansas river with his infantry while Marmaduke is on the north side with his cavalry. Hundreds from Hindman's army are daily joining Herron, many of them Missourians, who express the greatest disgust at the rebel campaign, and think the further prosecution of the war as hopeless.

Gen. Curtis yesterday received a communication from the rebel Gen. Holmes, forwarded by the direction of Jeff. Davis, inquiring into the facts relative to the shooting of ten Confederate citizens by order of McNeil. Enclosed with the communication is a printed slip from the Grand Appeal, credited to the Palmyra (Mo.) Courier. Holmes and the Confederate government desire to know if this account is substantially correct. Curtis' reply will probably be published. It is looked for with much interest.
